

Presenter Bio – Tammy Anderson

September 2018

Tammy is a program analyst at the Census Bureau and works on outreach with data users, educating them on data.census.gov and the Census Data API through presentations, demonstrations, and webinars. Her background includes building employee training on the Census Bureau's data programs and on software developed for survey operations.

She also worked as a survey statistician for demographic surveys and the economic census. Tammy has a master's degree in mathematics and a graduate certificate in project management.